All Boston Globe

Enterprise All-Scholastic Team and the Standard Times Super Team 2002 & 2003

SCC All Star 2002 & 2003 and Team MVP 2003

Highlights: Amanda earned her reputation and recognition on the softball field with a .521 career batting average (.531 during her senior year), 51 of 53 stolen bases, and batting in 39 RBI's. And if that wasn't impressive enough ... add 1.000% Fielding (a perfect no error career in center field).

In 2003, she capped her high school success with a nod from the South Coast Conference (Sportsmanship Award), The Taunton Gazette (Female Athlete of the Year) and Apponequet (Outstanding Female Athlete). In college, she was a four-year All-Conference selection, leading Bryant University's softball team to two league championships and setting five school records, including 24 career home runs and 210 career hits. She was named Northeast-10 Conference Player of the Year in 2007 and earlier this year, was inducted into the Bryant University Athletic Hall of Fame. Since college, she has completed several half-marathons, resides in Cambridge, MA and is employed as an Operations Analyst for the Social Security Administration in Boston.
